

May 3, 2013 – END OF STUDENT TEACHING OVERALL REFLECTION

Reflection

	INSTANT	LATER
material	Some review, some new. World Geography is the best! WM classes helped with the content in my undergrad, and the delivery in my grad. Nice!	Social studies is fun, but World Geography would be perfect. Look out in the future for positions. Keep that enthusiasm up! Maintain your teacher toolbox your professors and CT talk about.
rapport with students	I'll miss New Kent. It feels good to know I could behave myself and collaborate with different people to the point where I enjoyed my experience. Keep up the good work! Let this help motivate you. You've truly discovered a big reason you felt called to education: Helping others and working with community.	While teaching is awesome, don't limit yourself to just public school (especially in these hard economic times). Look for other avenues where teaching is involved with helping others and/or working with the community!!
